Open Index Initiative is a modest attempt by the IGIDR library staff [Mumbai, India] to develop an online and searchable bibliographic database for most of the Indian Social Science literature and resources available in libraries. OII indexes selected Indian social science Journals and working papers/discussion papers/occasional Papers, and thesis/dissertations emanating from Indian social science and management institutes and various departments. We welcome all the library professionals of the country, working in social science and management libraries and faculty members from departments of library and information science, to join hands with us, in an endeavour to intensify resource sharing activities.

We are highly thankful to all the individuals and institutions who have supported us directly or indirectly.
